aluminium, grown up

Our collection of windows and doors have been revisualised, moving away from the steel designs of old. With new technologies and systems in place, our styles have been updated to suit all property types, as well as incorporating current requirements such as thermal efficiency, high security and weather testing.

the finishing touch

The hardware choice for your new aluminium windows and doors is just as important as their style and colour. A brushed steel pull bar, for example, can be the thing that transforms your door into something more exclusive than just an entrance door. Our security cylinders turn your home into a safe and secure environment and our specially chosen bi-fold and sliding door hardware are easy to use and trouble free for years to come.
